

DOUBLES

Some brewery names were so nice, they got picked twice: We've sorted out six same-named beer makers

MOTHER EARTH BREW CO.

At its hub in Vista, Calif., the brewery pours its ever-changing, tap-only lineup, and hosts a homebrew store.

1

MOTHER EARTH BREWING

Beyond its solar-powered eastern North Carolina taproom, this Mother Earth's brews can be found in bottles and cans.

EPIC ALES

The Seattle brewery's standout is its zippy Solar Trans Amplifier, a wit that trades wheat for rice and orange rind for chamomile and ginger.

2

EPIC BREWING

The Salt Lake City outfit's Exponential Series churns out brain-bending bottles like the decorated Brainless on Peaches, a Belgian golden ale aged with peach purée in Chardonnay barrels.

Three's no crowd: Auckland, New Zealand's got Epic Beer, which brews the cult favorite DIPA Hop Zombie.

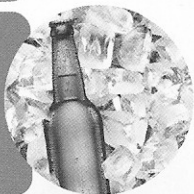

BURNSIDE BREWING

Brewer Jason McAdam launched the Portland, Ore., brewery (famous for its oatmeal pale) in 2010.

3

OLDE BURNSIDE BREWING

This Burnside in East Hartford, Conn., is indeed older; it's a branch of owner Bob McClellan's family's Burnside Ice Co., founded in 1911.

FIRE ON THE MOUNTAIN BREWING

A handful of draft-only house beers pours at this Buffalo wing spot with three Portland, Ore., locations and a dozen creative, house-made sauces.

4

FIRE MOUNTAIN BREW HOUSE

Just an hour southwest from Portland, Ore., this environmentally friendly, steam-powered brewery bottles its six brews.

BIG WOOD BREWERY

This suburban Twin Cities brewery cans its three offerings: Morning Wood—a coffee stout—gets top billing.

5

BIG WOODS BREWING

In Nashville, Ind., this brewpub rotates its beers among six taps, and serves up a full menu and live music, too.

BRICKTOWNE BREWING

This neighborhood taproom in Medford, Ore., pours its own flagships and homebrewer collabs on draft.

BRICKTOWN BREWING

Both Oklahoma City locations of this brewery-restaurant serve its house beers at the bar and pour-it-yourself Beer Tap Tables.
